AWARD

This is a reference made to this Tribunal by the Govt. of Goa, Daman & Diu, by its Order No. 28/1/79-ILD dated 24th October, 1979. The schedule annexed to the Order of Reference reads as follows:

"Whether the two mechanics are sufficient to do the fixing of the Bladder in the Curing Press or whether the assistance of the 3rd man is required.

If not, to what relief the said workmen are entitled?"

2. The case of the Union, as per the statement of claim, is that sometime in July, 1979, a dispute arose between the Management and their workmen in one of the many complicated processes where the bladder has to be fixed in the press. According to the workman, for the last 6 years it has been a practice for two mechanics working in the Curing Section, who work with the assistance of one Helper for changing the bladder. If the Helper was not available or designated as such a casual contract labour was made available to help the mechanics in this process. This was the prevailing practice for all these years. It appears that because of an agreement prohibiting the contract of casual labour on production work, the Management removed the casual contract labour who was helping the two mechanical workers in the Curing Section working on bladder. When the mechanics asked for proper help, they were refused on the ground that their Industrial Engineering Studies for Manpower requirement had established that two workers were sufficient and the employment of the third man as helper was not required. This difference of opinion created a deadlock leading to the stoppage of work and strike which continued for 10 days and was only resolved after it was agreed to refer the dispute for adjudication and until such time only trainees were to do the fixing of bladder on the press. It is the contention of the workmen that the third worker in the Curing Section was removed to spite the workers because they had taken up the issue that contract labour be not employed in the production processes. The management had retaliated by taking the stand that henceforth no third man (helper) will be supplied and the two mechanical workers in the Curing Section were sufficient to do this bladder fixing work without the help of the third man (helper). As the matter mentioned in the dispute is only whether two or three men are required to do the fixing of the bladder in the curing press, the Hon'ble Tribunal will have to be demonstrated the processes to arrive at a correct conclusion. In actual practice, the bladder curing is being done by 4 trainees and often 5 because the process cannot be physically carried out by 2 workmen.

3. The employer, in its written statement, has inter-alia stated that the issue covered under the order of reference is an issue already covered under the settlement dated 15-5-1978 and so it cannot be permitted or ought not to have been permitted to be agitated by raising a fictitious dispute by the workmen upon the Management. For this reason, the Order of Reference would be invalid, bad in law and not maintainable.

4. In view of this preliminary objection raised by the employer, the following preliminary issue was framed:

"Whether the employer proves that the issue covered under the order of reference is an issue already covered under the settlement dated 15-5-1978 and so the order of reference is bad in law and not maintainable?"

5. After the employer had already led its evidence and date was fixed for the Union to lead its evidence, an application was filed, signed by both the parties, that a consent award be passed on an amicable settlement arrived at between the parties, the terms of which were also filed along with the application. The terms of the settlement are as follows:

"1. It is hereby agreed and accepted that the work of bringing and fixing of the bladder from the Bladder Assembly Shop to the Curing Press will be done by Two Engineering Assistants.

2. It is hereby agreed that in view of the agreement arrived at between the parties, will jointly apply to the Industrial Tribunal for the withdrawal of the adjudication and make a consent award on the terms and conditions agreed to by both the parties in this agreement."

6. In view of the above settlement, which is fair to both the parties, I pass the following order:

ORDER

Consent Award in terms of the above settlement is hereby made and the matter is disposed off, with no order as to costs.
